EDWARD DE BONO

Six Thinking Hats is a system designed by Edward de Bono which describes a tool for group discussion and individual thinking involving six colored hats. "Six Thinking Hats" provide a means for groups to plan thinking processes in a detailed and cohesive way, and in doing so to think together more effectively. De Bono identifies six distinct directions in which the brain can be challenged. None of these directions is a completely natural way of thinking, but rather how some of us already represent the results of our thinking. Since the hats do not represent natural modes of thinking, each hat must be used for a limited time only. Also, some will feel that using the hats is unnatural, uncomfortable or even counterproductive and against their better judgement. In the natural world, the thing that is out of the ordinary may well be dangerous. This mode is identified as the root of negative judgement and critical thinking.

- Blue: Managing what is the subject? what are we thinking about? what is the goal? Can look at the big picture.
- White: Information considering purely what information is available, what are the facts?
 - Red: Emotions intuitive or instinctive gut reactions or statements of emotional feeling (but not any justification).
- Black: Discernment logic applied to identifying reasons to be cautious and conservative. Practical, realistic.
- Yellow: Optimistic Response logic applied to identifying benefits, seeking harmony. Sees the brighter, sunny side of situations.
- Green: Creativity statements of provocation and investigation, seeing where a thought goes. Thinks creatively, outside the box.

- Sushma Shetty (T.Y. BMS)

LESSON OF LIFE

A crow sat on a tree doing nothing, When a rabbit thought to do the same and sat on the ground.

A tiger came and ate him..

MORAL - To sit and do nothing...

You need to be on the top...

THE EASIER WAY ACTUALLY BE THE TOUGHER WAY

Once there was a lark singing in the forest. A farmer came by with a box full of worms. The lark stopped him and asked, "what do you have in the box and where are you going?" The farmer replied that he had worms and that he was going to the market to trade them for some feathers. The lark said, "I have many feathers. I will pluck one and give it to you and that will save me looking for worms." The farmer gave the worms to the lark and the lark plucked a feather and gave it in return. The next day the same thing happened and the day after and on and on until a day came that the lark had no more feathers. Now it could no longer fly to go hunting for worms. It started looking ugly and stopped singing and very soon it died. The moral of the story is quite clear—what the lark thought was an easy way to get food turned out to be the tougher way after all. Isn't the same thing true in our lives? Many times we look for the easier way, which really ends up being the tougher way.

SNEAK PEAK

Life during college days at Ratnam was the best phase of my life.

Ratnam College always instilled in me important values of discipline, punctuality, integrity and equipped me for all the challenges.

I would face in life by creating a strong foundation of knowledge. During our days, Ratnam College was regarded as a strict college for its attendance, discipline and studies. I personally enjoyed the environment because I knew that these virtues would make me a better person and a good citizen in future. The professors were friendly and approachable always. They were very good in their respective subjects and taught with great fervor. Professors like our current principal Dr. Mary Vimochana, Prof. Sakina Banu, Parab sir are few of the many teaching staff who were instrumental in building my confidence and eliminating the fear of public speaking. Ratnam College taught me to learn, live and lead my life beautifully with great sense of responsibility and commitments towards my family, friends, teachers and co-workers. Ratnam College is fully committed in providing our country with educated and responsible citizens in every spheres of life.

WHERE IT ALL BEGAN

I would like to share my experience as ratnamite During my initial stages in my college, I used to be very shy, not confident enough but participation in college functions and activities was the key. It moulded me my over all personality and I evolved more responsible person.

As being the student of Ratnam college, I learned that Ratnam lays emphasis on an all round development of students character and personality.

Three years of my journey in Ratnam college as a student assisted me in honing my severe skills like leadership, communication, planning & many more. This helped me to achieve zenith of success in my life.

Today, with great sense of pride I can say that I am working as a teacher with one of the renowned school in Mumbai. I owe a lot to Ratnam college & its top notch faculty members.

My faculty gave me good moral support and they guided me to go through all difficulties and I always used to feel free to ask any doubt and they had played a major role in my life. Today I feel very proud to say that I am a teacher in a good reputed school and I am proud to be a ratnamite.

POEM PENNED BY ALUMNUS

It was my time for a coffee, Headed to the nearest cafe. Sat on the couch with my colleague, But the sudden giggles caught my intrigue.

A bunch of college students were having their time, A beautiful memories passed by like a windchime.

College life is a most beautiful time, which is as soothing as a morning sunshine.

The walls in here have witnessed the emotions, the untold story of love and affection.

Just like other stepped In with utmost hesitation, unaware of the magical moments in creation.

The teachers have taught the best lessons of life, making us prepare the unseen saga of strive.

The friends in which I can say, brings out the real me, the family in which completes my family tree.

Year's passed by but the memories still stay, even when our hair turns grey.

Tear's rolled by as the SlideShow hit, some undesirable words in a small bit.

LIVE IN THE PRESENT

Life is not a dress rehearsal. I don't care what philosophy you believe in-we have got only one shot at this game called life. The stakes are too high to waste your life. The stakes are the future generations.

What the time is it and where we are? The answer is now and we are here. Let's make the best of now and utilize the present to the fullest. The message is not that we don't need to plan for the future. The message is that we do need to plan for the future. If we utilize our present to its fullest, we are sowing the seeds for a better future. If you want to build a positive attitude, learn the phrase, do it now and stop the habit of procrastination.

The saddest words in life are:-

- "It might have been".
- "I should have."
- "I could have."
- "I wish I had."
- "If only I had given a little extra."

Never leave till tomorrow, which you can do today.

-Benjamin Franklin

I am sure all winners wanted to be procrastinators but never got around to it.

When people say, "I will do it one of these days," you can be sure it means none of these days.

Some people keep waiting for all the lights to turn green before they leave home. That will never happen. They fail even before they start. That is sad.

Stop procrastinating: Isn't it time that we put of f putting things of f?

- Monica Pardeshi (T.Y BMS)

THE POWER OF POSITIVE THINKING

Luckily, you can change your thinking patterns over time. Even a pessimist can become an optimist with enough practice! All you need to do is to reframe how you define events. Instead of dwelling on the bad experience, analyze it to figure out what good can come of it. Even if a project at work is deemed a failure, think about what you learned during the process. What strengths did you discover within yourself, and when can you use those talents again?

Instead of blaming yourself for the failure, think about the outside influences that may have affected your project. Maybe you were delayed by outside vendors, so you couldn't meet a deadline; or management decided to go in another direction, making your project redundant. Virtually any failure can be turned into a learning experience, which increases your potential for success in the future.

Optimism is a skill of emotional intelligence, which translates to a better career and greater success in life. Life is too short to be miserable, so start turning your thinking around! The power of positive thinking can advance your prospects for work, relationships and other life experiences.
